SOLDIER TO TEST FORD FARM THEORY

Franklin K. Lane, Secretary of the Interior, has been asked to select a soldier who has been permanently erippled while fighting for the United States in France and who at the same time is married and under the necessity of supporting his wife, for the purpose of taking the principal part in a social experiment of unusual interest and importance.

The soldier is to be used for the solution of this problem "Can a man of ordinary intelligence, even though physically handicapped, make a good living, care for a family and even provide for his old age on a small farm?"

Henry Ford, the Detroit motor manufacturer, wishes to prove his belief that such a thing is practicable, and it was he, therefore, who asked Secretary Lane to choose the man. Mr. Ford has already laid out a ten-acre farm on his 4,000-acre estate at Dearborn, Mich., and he is going to equip it and build a house and barn on it at ence, so that the test may begin as soon as possible. Mr. Lane, ever since we got into the war, has been advocating a "back to nature" life for our returned soldiers, wounded or unwounded, when the conflict is over. He listened enthe conflict is over. He listened en-thusiastically to Mr. Ford's proposal, and said he would lose no time in picking out the proper sort of a man to carry the expertment through.

It is not to be a charitable proposition. The motor manufacturer means, merely to finance the soldier, means, merely to finance the soldier, to lend him the fully equipped farm at its full valuation, with the understanding that it is to be paid for by the farmer's earnings.

"This is my idea," said Mr. Ford to a correspondent after his visit to the Secretary. "I will install the crippled soldier and his wife in a comfortable home, with an appropriate sized barn on the little farm.

"This whole layout I will value at $4,500, which is, as nearly as I at $4.500, which is, as nearly as I van figure, its actual worth. I firmly believe that the man will be able to earn an excellent living and to pay back his indebtedness in ten years, after which he will own the property, and will be able to lay up his profits for his declining years.

"For the purpose of this particular experiment, I will buy the solution."

CLEVELAND, Sept. 11.—Examination of witnesses was continued today at the resumption of the trial of Eugene V. Debs, Socialist, charged with violation of the eapionage law. The rapidity with which the case is being tried may result in the completion of the taking of testimony today, it was said, and counsel for the defense said the case may be in the hands of the Jury tomorrow.

United States District Attorney E. Wertz has devoted practically all of his efforts in the examination of witnesses to prove that Debs supported and adhered to the Socialist anti-war.

ZEPPELIN INVENTOR DEAD.

PARIS, Sept. 11 .- Maurice Chev zenz, the real inventor of the famous zeppelin airship, is dead, and with his passing emphasis is given the fact that Count Zeppelin was not the originator of the great airship that bears his name. Chevreux, who was a French naval engineer, was employed in the Zeppelin workships, and while so engaged he designed the six-clyinder motor by which Count Zeppelin was able to triumph.

CHICAGO CAR LINES AT VOTERS' MERCY

CHICAGO. Sept. 11.—A more harmonious feeling among city officials, traction interests and people in general inspires faith in an amicable agreement for a new franchise for the Chicago city railway linea. The ordinance passed by the city cogneli will be voted upon by Chicago citizens at the November election.

John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, in discussing the outlook, said today: "For the first time I believe traction interests and the people are nearly agreed on a franchise. This is the result of a long campaign of education on both sides of the proposition. The people and public utilities and public officials are drawing closer all the time in a general sense and this is resulting in more reasonable ordinances and fairer agreements between factions. The old days of grabbing a franchise and giving no attention during the period of its duration to the wishes of the people are over. Efforts being continuously made to bring about an understanding between formerly discordant inare over. Efforts being continuously made to bring about an understanding between formerly discordant interests will have good effect when the vital time comes for asking franchise favors.
